and any promised technical support.

Consider setting up a spreadsheet with fields for each of these 20 questions—or your own variations. If you update it regularly, you will have the research you need at your fingertips the next time you need to equip your kitchen. The equipment procurement process will never be as easy as an entertaining parlor game, but this type of information collection and ongoing tracking can make it a less onerous responsibility and give you more confidence in your decisions. SN

This month's SN examines different issues related to school nutrition equipment. We want to know: "If money—and space—were no object, what's one piece of equipment that you would like to buy and install? Why?"
